The Inspiration Behind And Slowly Beauty

Nadeau's inspiration for And Slowly Beauty stems from his childhood experiences growing up in rural Quebec. Surrounded by lush forests and pristine lakes, he developed a deep appreciation for the power of nature and its ability to heal and rejuvenate.

As he grew older, Nadeau became increasingly disillusioned with the conventional skincare products available on the market. He found many of them to be laden with harsh chemicals, artificial fragrances, and synthetic ingredients that irritated his skin and compromised its health.

Determined to create a better alternative, Nadeau began experimenting with natural ingredients and traditional skincare practices. He spent countless hours researching the properties of plants, herbs, and minerals, seeking to uncover their therapeutic benefits for the skin.
